COTTON MARKET.

The Government Cotton Report. The government's final crop repor for the season on the condition of cotton is as follows: North Carolina, 72, showing a decline of 4 points. South Carolina, 70, showing a decline Georgia, 68, showing a decline of 3 Alabama, 67, showing a decline of 5 Mississippi, 63, showing a decline of has not been named.

of 2 points.

STOCKS AND BONDS, COPPERS, GRAIN AND PROVISIONS, LIVESTOCK, WOOL AND COT-

Louisiana, 51, showing a decline of points.

Texas, 63, showing a decline of Arkansas, 68, showing a decline of 10

Tennessee, 73, showing a decline of Oklahoma, 70, showing a decline of 15 | 211 St. Louis St. points. The average condition as given was 65.9 percent of normal as compared with 72.1 on Aug. 25; 58.5 on Sept. 25. 1909; 69.7 on Sept 25, 1908, and 66.6 the average for the past te nyears.

Preceding this publication the census bureau issued a report placing the amount of cotton ginned up to Sept. 25 from the growth of 1910 at 2,202,211 bales, as compared with 2,568,150 bales ginned to the same date last year. This report in some quarters was pointed to as indicating a smaller crop than last year. It is hardly fair, however, sim ply because less cotton has been ginned to make such a deduction; rather does It add testimony to the correctness of our reports from different sections of the belt as to the lateness of the erop, and this is practically its only bearing on present market movements. The government report was in line with previous trade estimates, the con sensus of opinion from these sources having figured the condition at 66.7. In this connection it is gratifying to note the increasing reliability of the government estimates and that the deplorable conditions of a few years ago no longer exist; hence, making due al-lowances for an inclination to underes-acreage, the reports are now to be denended upon. The report issued Monday points to a crop of about 11,700,000 bales if it be accepted that 33,196,000 acres were planted to the staple, as reported earlier in the year. Some critics, however, are inclined to question the acreage: assuming, nevertheless, that the gov ernment figures are correct, the total yield as indicated must be looked upon timate conditions and overestimate as the maximum. From now on the all important factor is weather and a close watch is being kept on every climatic change throughout the cotton belt for it must be admitted that killing frost prior to Nov. 1 would result in further materially reducing the ultimate yield. This would be most serious, for nearly all of the manufacturing centers, both at home and abroad, are bare of the staple, and it is believed that close to 13,000,000 bales of American cotton will be required to supply the normal demand from the world's spindles. It must be borne in mind, however, that, as in previous years where short crops existed, the demand has been made to fit the supply, and it is rea-sonable to assume, judging from the past, that from now on as the price advances the demand of necessity will be lessened. Last year's cotton crop amounted to 10,350,078 bales—apparently an inade-quate supply—and yet on August 31, when new cotton commenced coming to market, there still remained on hand a stock of 939,803 bales-only 543,782 bales less than the previous year, bales less than the previous plaint of the police department. He was which followed a crop of 13,029,992 liberated late Wednesday night and largely discounted a second small crop. It is feared that a good many of the recent purchases of cotton for future burial. It has not yet been decided delivery have been on behalf of people whether the body will be returned to who may not be in a position to stand Chicago or interred at the post cemea serious setback should one take tery. place, and for this reason it would seem rather risky for one to purchase freely at this high level without at least the protection of a stop loss or-the ports.

Receipts show a slight falling of fran last week, but the movement to market is in fair volume and prospects for the coming week point to very liberal arrivals, both at interior points and

FT. BLISS SOLDIER

Coney Island Bartender Arrested on Charge of Murder; Released on Bond.

Private Joseph T. Desmond, of company E, 23rd infantry, stationed at Fort Bliss, died Wednesday evening from the effects of injuries which he s said to have received in the Coney Island saloon late Tuesday afternoon. Edward Warren, a bartender at the Coney Island, was placed under arrest at the time of the trouble, charged with assault to murder, and placed on bond. Later he was rearrested on the charge of murder in the second degree. and the amount of his bond, originally fixed at $1000, increased to $3000. This was signed by Tom Powers, proprietor of the Coney Island and J. Y. Cannon.

and Warren was given his liberty. A post mortem exaination was made of the body of private Desmond at Fort Bliss Wednesday evening, in the presence of justice of the peace E. H. Watson. It was found that death had occurred from concussion of the brain, thought to have been brought about by a blow on the head with a hottle. Desmond was struck twice, once on the forehead and once over the left ear, according to justice Watson. The skull was not fractured but the concussion resulting from the blow caused Warren, who is said to be unmarried and who lived at 712 St. Vrain street, was placed under arrest by deputy constable Brown upon com-plaint of the police department. Ysleta, Texas, Oct. 13.—This portion of the El Paso valley will be well represented in several departments of the El Paso Fair. The Sunset ranch, M. T. Graves and Rev. Miles Hansen will make exhibits Several women have signified their intention of making exhibits of their handiwork in the woman's department. Dr. Hansen will have a number of his own paintings in the Art department, and George Buchanan is collecting exhibits of the agricultural and horticultural products of the valley. Mr.

Buchanan will be glad to receive from growers any specimens they may have of fruits grains, grasses and forage plants. He will take charge of them and see tout they are entered at the Fair. Present indications are that the display from Ysleta in the agricultural department will be particularly good.
